

COMMUNITY COMMENT FOR JULY 31, 2013

This is Phil Arnot for Community Comment on KINS Radio.

I read a great article by Peggy Noonan this last week. She revealed more about the IRS scandal than you will ever see or hear from the Main Stream Media.

Her article is Titled "A Bomb Shell in the IRS Scandal." She writes that the Congressional investigation taught us that what Washington was saying was false. The targeting of the Tea Party and other conservative groups over their Tax Exempt status was not concentrated in Cincinnati by a few rogue agents, but went all the way to the top and that means the Chief Counsel to the IRS in Washington DC.

The operation went like this: Elizabethy Hofacre in the Cincinnati IRS office was told that all Tea Party Applications were to go to Carter Hull in Washington DC and then Lois Lerner said they would go to higher authority in the Washington D.C. IRS office.

When congress asked Mr. Hull what the Chief Counsel was looking for, he said they wanted information about the groups political actions leading up to the 2010 Election.

By the way all non-Tea Party Applications were treated in the normal way.

So the story gets better, the Chief Counsel of the IRS is William Wilkins and he is one of only two Obama political appointees in the IRS.

Carter Hull testified that he was given a lengthy run around in the Washington Office. No one there was clear as to their reason, but everything was delayed. He said the scrutinizing of the targeted groups was unusual.

Even after all this Jay Carney said it was all done in the Cincinnati office

This White House continues to confuse this issue through misdirection and misstatements.

Now its reported that besides line dancing at Las Vegas, the top IRS officials have spent over $4

Million this year already on travel.

I leave you with a point to ponder: Don't you think that all of the scandals in Washington require the appointment of an Independent Counsel.
