This is Phil Arnott for community comment on K INS radio.

The news today is about the police and the unruly.

For one, I am a strong supporter of our local police and sheriff's departments. Now, let us talk about what you do without the protection of our law enforcement men and women in our community. For me, I have been the beneficiary of the protection and recovery of property stolen from me and my property. It has happened at my office and at my home.

Whenever I have been stopped by the California Highway Patrol, they have had good reason.

Fortunately having a good alarm system is really important in protecting your home and your property. My support goes out to share of Downey and his staff and all of our local police departments and their staffs. If you are a law-abiding citizen, you should never have a run in or a problem with law enforcement personnel, but if you are not, you will be confronted. If arrested, you should cooperate, not resist or become a statistic.

Being in law enforcement is not an easy vocation. We are fortunate to have colleges in our district that have good training programs. This field is not an easy profession, so I applaud those men and women who have chosen this field.

Seeing what has gone on in Missouri and other parts of our country I only know that being an unlawful person and resisting arrest if that happens. you will end up being a statistic
