I thought I would share with you today some of the most wonderful sayings that exist in the world today.

My father always shared with me the important words that would help me grow up and become an adult one day.

His favorite was as follows: when you travel down ~~of~~ life's highway, whatever be your goal, keep your eye upon the doughnut and not upon the ~~the~~ whole.

He also taught me that there are four kinds of people in the world first there is he who knows not and knows not that he knows not, he is a fool and you should avoid him.

Next, he ^{who} knows not and knows he knows not, he is a child, teach him.

Next, he who knows and knows not that he knows he is asleep and you must awaken him.

Lastly is he who knows and knows that he knows, he is a leader, and you should follow him.

The ^{Govt} sign that always intrigues me is the one that says ~~quite~~ do not feed the wildlife as that will make them dependent upon you and they will not forage for themselves. Now the government hands out food stamps and other entitlements and what does that do to those recipients

Another one ^{well sure} of my parents taught me is that if you don't have a sense of humor you probably don't have any sense at all.

A friend of mine sent me this one, how come it takes so little time for a child who is afraid of the dark to become a teenager who wants to stay out all night.

He also sent me this one: I have reached the age where happy hour is a nap.

Remember, politicians and diapers should be changed often and for the same reason.

Well I don't know about you but I will be happy when the year 2016 is over and the politicians are off stage.
